“Mr. Obama is our choice because of his consistently solid judgment... Americans are tired of divisive, hard-edged politics. Democrats would inspire a refreshingly new approach by choosing Mr. Obama as their 2008 candidate.”

The Dallas Morning News

“The key differences between the candidates are in their leadership styles and visions for the country. Obama presents a view of governing that is inclusive and relies on Americans to work with their government to solve sobering problems at home and abroad.”

“We're up against the conventional thinking that says your ability to lead as president comes from longevity in Washington or proximity to the White House. But we know that real leadership is about candor and judgment and the ability to rally Americans from all walks of life around a common purpose, a higher purpose. We're up against decades of bitter partisanship that cause politicians to demonize their opponents instead of coming together to make college affordable or energy cleaner.”
